NHSDA 1995:
National Household Survey on Drug Abuse

Processor Note on Version 1

1) Variables ending in ...NEWA, ...NEWB, ...NEWC, and ...NEWD (e.g.,HALNEWA) represent written responses to open-ended questions regarding use of specific drugs. This resulted in some instances of incorrectly classified drugs.

2) IRHSGRAD (High School Graduation - Imputation Revised) does not distinguish between respondents aged 12-17 and those 18 and older. Accordingly, most respondents aged 12-17 are included in the "No" category.

3) Family and personal income range variables were constructed from two imputation-revised variables that were deleted from the public use dataset and codebook to protect confidentiality. Users are advised that the recoded income range variables cannot be replicated from the imputation-revised variables (IRFINC1 and IRPINC1) contained in the public use file.

Processor Note on Version 2

1) Modified value labels and missing values for variable GQTYPE to correct previous errors. The variable CASEID was also added to the dataset.

INTRODUCTION AND DESCRIPTION OF THE 1995 NATIONAL HOUSEHOLD SURVEY ON DRUG ABUSE

Introduction

This codebook provides documentation for the 1995 National Household Survey on Drug Abuse (NHSDA) public use file. The 1995 NHSDA public use file has been prepared for use with the Statistical Analysis System (SAS) as a SAS dataset. The variable names in this codebook are the SAS variable names that appear in the dataset. The public use file is routinely provided to users on CD-ROM or on an unlabeled 9-track tape with density of 6250 BPI.

For each variable on the 1995 public use file, this codebook provides the SAS variable name, a description of the variable, the interview instrumentation source, value codes and their meanings, and a univariate frequency distribution. Most of the variables originated as questionnaire or answer sheet items. For created variables, the source variables and recoding specifications are provided, if space allows. In addition, case identification, sampling, and data collection variables are included on the file and documented in this codebook. In 1994, a revised questionnaire and editing methodology was introduced. A split sample design was implemented with a sample of 4,372 persons using the old questionnaire (1994-A) and 17,809 persons using the new questionnaire (1994-B). Because of these changes, the estimates produced from the 1995 survey (which uses the same questionnaire and estimation methodology as the 1994-B survey) are not comparable to those produced from the 1994-A and earlier surveys.

Overview of the NHSDA

The 1995 NHSDA is the fifteenth in a series, the primary purpose of which is to measure the prevalence and correlates of drug use in the United States. This survey provides information about the use of illicit drugs, alcohol, and tobacco among members of the non-institutionalized U.S. civilian population aged 12 and older. Surveys have been conducted periodically since 1971, with the most recent ones in 1979, 1982, 1985, 1988, 1990, 1991, 1992, 1993, 1994 and 1995. Currently, public use files are available for 1979, 1982, 1985, 1988, 1990, 1991, 1992, 1993, and 1994-A (old questionnaire) and 1994-B (new questionnaire), and 1995.

The target population for the 1995 survey is the same as defined for the 1991, 1992, 1993, and 1994 NHSDAs: the civilian, noninstitutionalized population of the 50 United States (including civilians living on military bases) who are 12 years of age and older.

Before 1991, the NHSDA sample was drawn from the household population of the contiguous 48 states. Alaska and Hawaii were added to the sampled population in 1991, as were residents of non-institutional group quarters (e.g., college dormitories, group homes, civilians dwelling on military installations) and persons with no permanent residence (homeless people in shelters and residents of single rooms in hotels). In addition, six special-interest metropolitan statistical areas were oversampled. New questions were added in 1991 to collect data on treatment for drug use, illegal activities, and use of anabolic steroids; and the sets of questions about insurance and personal and family income sources and amounts were expanded. The 1992 and 1993 NHSDAs retained these innovations and were also designed to provide quarterly as well as annual estimates.

Although the design of the NHSDA has preserved continuity in assessing drug use throughout the survey series, it has been sufficiently flexible to permit implementation of special procedures and examination of special topics. In 1979, respondents from rural areas were oversampled, and since 1985, blacks and Hispanics have been oversampled to increase the reliability of estimates of drug use in these important groups. Since 1988, additional information has also been gathered about the form of cocaine known as "crack" and about sharing needles for injection of drugs. Also, the consequences of use of various drugs have been given considerable attention since 1985. In 1994, two questionnaires were used: the old questionnaire which retained all the core questions from the previous surveys, and the new questionnaire in which new questions on access to care and mental health were introduced. The 1994 survey also included a rural supplementary sample to obtain substance abuse prevalence estimates for rural areas in the U.S.

The 1995 NHSDA questionnaire retains the new questions on mental health and access to care which were introduced in the 1994-B (new questionnaire). Furthermore, questions on need for treatment for drug or alcohol use and criminal record were included under special topics.

A description of the 1995 survey, including more detailed information on sampling issues, is found in two reports from the study:

National Household Survey on Drug Abuse: Main Findings 1995. This report provides information on the prevalence of use and information on demographic correlates of use, frequency of use, patterns of use, problems from use, and perceptions of risk of use of illicit drugs, alcohol, and tobacco (DHHS Publication No. (SMA) 97-3127).

National Household Survey on Drug Abuse: Population Estimates 1995. This report provides estimates of the percentages and numbers of people in the non-institutionalized U.S. civilian population aged 12 and over who have ever used illicit drugs, alcohol, and tobacco, as well as estimates of use in the past year and past month (DHHS Publication No. (SMA) 96-3095).

Strengths and Limitations of the NHSDA

The NHSDA is the only study that regularly produces estimates of drug use among civilian members of the non-institutionalized population in the United States. The survey is an appropriate technique for estimating prevalence rates for use of different drugs because much drug use would not ordinarily come to the attention of administrative, medical, or correctional authorities and therefore would not be included in official statistics. In-person interviews with a large national probability sample seem to be the best way to estimate drug use in virtually the entire population of the United States.

Although the NHSDA is useful for many purposes, it has certain limitations. First, the data are self-reports of drug use, and their value depends on respondents' truthfulness and memory. Although some experimental studies have established the validity of self-reported data in similar contexts and the NHSDA procedures were designed to encourage honesty and recall, some under- and over-reporting may have taken place. Second, the survey is cross-sectional rather than longitudinal. That is, individuals were interviewed only once and were not followed for additional interviews. The surveys, therefore, provide an overview of the prevalence of drug use at specific points in time rather than a view of how drug use changes over time for specific individuals. Third, because the target population of the survey is defined as the non-institutionalized civilian population of the United States, a small proportion (slightly more than 1%) of the population is excluded. The subpopulations excluded are members of the active duty military and persons in institutional group quarters (e.g., hospitals, prisons, nursing homes, treatment centers).

If the drug use of these groups differs from that of the non-institutionalized civilian population, the NHSDA may provide slightly inaccurate estimates of drug use in the total population. This may be particularly true for prevalence estimates for rarely used drugs such as heroin.

Survey Methodology

The respondent universe for the 1995 NHSDA was the civilian, noninstitutionalized population age 12 years and older within the United States, including residents of noninstitutional group quarters (e.g., shelters, rooming houses, dormitories) as well as residents of civilian housing on military bases. Persons excluded from the universe include those with no fixed address, residents of institutional quarters (such as jails and hospitals), and active military personnel. The survey used basically the same multistage area probability sample design that has been employed since the 1988 NHSDA. This design uses a composite size measure methodology and a specially designed within-dwelling selection procedure to ensure that desired sample sizes would be achieved for subpopulations defined by age and race/ethnicity. Oversampling was used to meet specified precision constraints for these subpopulations. Following precedents established in the 1993 and 1994 NHSDA's, the 1995 NHSDA oversampled Hispanics in areas of high Hispanic concentration to reduce survey costs and also oversampled cigarette smokers age 18-34 to increase the precision of drug use estimates for recent years. Unlike the 1991-1993 NHSDAs and like the 1994 NHSDA, the 1995 NHSDA did not oversample particular Metropolitan Statistical Areas (MSAs). Unlike the 1994 NHSDA, the 1995 NHSDA selected new sample segments, rather than reusing segments from the prior year's NHSDA. The completed sample size of the 1995 NHSDA equals 17,747 interviews.

As in previous NHSDAs, the basic sample design of the 1995 NHSDA involved five selection stages: (a) the selection of primary sampling units (e.g., counties), (b) the selection of subareas (blocks or block groups) within PSUs, (c) the selection of listing units (housing units or civilian, noninstitutionalized group quarters' units) within these subareas, (d) the selection of age-group-smoking classes within sampled listing units, and (e) the selection of eligible individuals within the sampled age-group-smoking classes. The following sections describe these selection stages.

Selection of Primary Sampling Units

The 1995 NHSDA selected 115 PSUs to represent the nation's total eligible population, including areas of high Hispanic concentration. These 115 PSUs were defined as metropolitan areas, counties, groups of counties, and independent cities. The 115 PSUs comprise 43 Certainty PSUs and 72 Noncertainty PSUs. The 43 Certainty PSUs are metropolitan areas with high Hispanic concentration that have been included in the NHSDA with certainty since 1988. The 72 Noncertainty PSUs were selected with probability proportional to size and minimal replacement to represent the balance of the nation outside the 43 certainty PSUs.

The segments that formed the 43 Certainty PSUs were partitioned into five strata:

- Stratum 1: High-Concentration Hispanic area segments. These segments had 71 percent or more Hispanic dwellings according to the 1990 Census.

- Stratum 2: Moderate-Concentration Hispanic area segments. These segments had between 20 percent and 71 percent Hispanic dwellings according to the 1990 Census.

- Stratum 3: Low-Concentration Hispanic area segments. These segments had less than 20 percent Hispanic dwellings but more than 2 percent combined Hispanic and non-Hispanic black population according to the 1990 Census, and furthermore included fewer than 70 percent non-Hispanic black population according to the 1990 Census.

- Stratum 4: High-Concentration Black area segments. These segments had fewer than 20 percent Hispanic dwelling units but more than 2 percent combined Hispanic and non-Hispanic black population according to the 1990 Census, and furthermore included at least 70 percent non-Hispanic black population according to the 1990 Census.

- Stratum 5: High-Concentration White area segments. These segments had 2 percent or less combined Hispanic and non-Hispanic black population according to the 1990 Census.

A sixth stratum were created for the residual (noncertainty) portion of the United States:

- Stratum 6: Outside the 43 Certainty PSUs.

An optimal allocation procedure was used to allocate the sample to the six strata listed above. The results of the allocation suggested that total survey costs would be minimized for fixed precision when Hispanics were oversampled in the strata in which they were concentrated. Once sufficient screening interviews were conducted to identify the required number of Hispanic dwellings, more than enough non-Hispanic black and non-Hispanic non-black dwellings would be identified so that these interviews could be proportionally allocated to strata.

The 43 Certainty PSUs contain 78 percent of the Hispanic population in the United States, according to the 1990 Census. They also contain approximately 52 percent of the non-Hispanic blacks and 39 percent of the non-Hispanic non blacks in the United States. The segments of Stratum 1 have 81.0 percent Hispanic dwellings on average and contain 23.8 percent of the U.S. Hispanic population. The segments of Stratum 2 have 31.5 percent Hispanic dwelling units and contain 35.3 percent of the U.S. Hispanic population. The segments of Stratum 3 have 5.1 percent Hispanic dwelling units and contain 17.5 percent of the U.S. Hispanic population.

The remaining 72 Noncertainty PSUs were selected from Stratum 6. The Noncertainty PSUs were selected with probability proportional to a composite size measure. The composite size measure was defined as the sum of racial/ethnic group dwelling counts weighted by the specified racial/ethnic sampling rates. This selection scheme allowed for targeting particular racial/ethnic subpopulation sample sizes. Chromy's (1979) probability minimum replacement sequential sampling scheme was used to select these 72 PSUs with probabilities proportional to their composite size measures. The use of a composite size measure ensured, 1) roughly equal sample sizes per sample subarea (the second-stage unit of selection) and 2) roughly equal probabilities of selecting eligible individuals (the fifth- or final-stage unit of selection) within race/ethnicity, age group, and current smoking status domains.

Selection of the Second-Stage Sample: Subareas within PSUs

The 1995 second-stage sampling frame was based on the 1990 Census. Within each sample PSU, subareas were defined by combining adjacent blocks to create non-overlapping area segments that contained at least 90 occupied dwellings. The sample segment size allocations, based on optimal allocation and the expected precision requirements of individual strata, are given in Table 1 for each stratum. These allocations assumed that about nine interviews would be completed per sample segment.

The area segments from each stratum of each of the PSUs were selected with probabilities proportional to a size measure. For each stratum, a composite size measure was defined to equal a weighted average of the numbers of Hispanic, non-Hispanic black, and non-Hispanic nonblack dwelling units with weights proportional to the desired racial/ethnic sampling rates. To reduce screening costs, the subareas of Stratum 6 were partitioned into three noncertainty substrata- high black, high white, and remainder- based on 1990 Census block data, and the selection of sample subareas was carried out separately within these three substrata.

Selection of the Third-Stage Sample: Listing Units within Subareas

Projections indicated that screenings had to be completed for 56,000 dwelling units in order to identify sufficient dwelling units to yield Hispanic and non-Hispanic black age-domain samples of the desired size. Assuming an average 94 percent screening completion rate and a projected average 88 percent listing unit eligibility rate implied that approximately 67,000 listings had to be selected. A listing unit was ineligible for the study if it was (a) vacant; (b) a vacation, second, or temporary home; (c) not a dwelling unit; (d) a military facility whose occupants were only military personnel; or (e) an institutional housing facility.

The selection of dwelling unit listings was performed using systematic sampling. The sampled listings were then sent to the field for screening. After first determining that a sampled listing was eligible for the study, the interviewer completed a dwelling roster that listed all residents age 12 and older with their age, smoking status, and race/ethnicity. This roster formed the basis for the within-dwelling sampling of individuals.

Within-Dwelling Unit Sampling

The 1995 NHSDA used basically the same within-dwelling unit sample selection approach that has been applied since the 1988 NHSDA, except that current smoking status was introduced as a sampling criterion in 1993 and continued in 1994 and 1995. Following the third-stage sampling, interviewers screened each sampled dwelling unit. Based on the screening, the dwelling was classified according to the race/ethnicity of the head of the dwelling. The interviewers also determined the age-group-smoking composition of members in terms of presence or absence of domain members age 12 to 17, 18 to 34 smoker (i.e., past-month smoker), 18 to 34 nonsmoker, 35 to 49, and 50 and up. Interviewers were provided a mechanism for selecting none, one, or two age-group-smoking domains and, subsequently, one sample person from each selected domain. The age-group-smoking selection probabilities were based on the desired sample sizes for each age group by racial/ethnic domain. The probabilities of selecting the person within the age-group-smoking domain were based on the number of persons found in the age-smoking group. The majority of cases where two selections were made involved one 12- to 17-year-old and one adult. Most instances that involved two adult selections included one smoker and one nonsmoker.

Data Collection and Response Rates

The fieldwork for the 1995 NHSDA was directed by senior staff members at Research Triangle Institute (RTI). A total of 17,747 completed interviews was obtained for the 1995 survey. A completed interview had to contain, at a minimum, data on the recency of use of marijuana, cocaine, and alcohol.

Strategies for ensuring high rates of participation resulted in an interview response rate of 80.6% for the 1995 survey. Of the 17,747 completed interviews, 8,940 were with whites and other (i.e., non-Hispanic, nonblacks), 4,208 were with non-Hispanic blacks, and 4,599 were with Hispanics. These completed interviews represented a 85.3% completion rate for screening sample households and an 94.2% rate for screening eligible households. The response rates for these three racial/ethnic groups were 79.6% for whites and others, 80% for blacks, and 83.2% for Hispanics.

Throughout the course of the study, the respondent's anonymity and the privacy of his or her responses were protected by separating identifying information from survey responses. Respondents were assured that their identities and responses would be handled in the strictest compliance with Federal law. The questionnaire itself and the interviewing procedures were designed to enhance the privacy of responses, especially during segments of the interview in which questions of a sensitive nature were posed. Respondents were asked to mark answer sheets to record their responses to questions read aloud by the interviewer. The interviewer did not see the completed answer sheets.

Weighting Procedures

The estimates of this report are based on sample survey data rather than on complete data for the population. This means that the data must be weighted to obtain unbiased estimates of drug use in the population represented by the 1995 NHSDA. The "final sampling weight" of the ith respondent, say w_i, can be interpreted as the number of persons in the NHSDA target population that are represented by the ith respondent. The sum of the weights over all respondents estimates the size of the total target population, i.e.,

$$\sum_i w_i = \textit{Size of target population}, \qquad (1)$$ where the summation is over all NHSDA respondents in the 1995 NHSDA.

The "basic sampling weights" for the 1995 NHSDA are equal to the inverse of the probabilities of selection of sample respondents. In other words, the smaller a respondent's chance of entering the sample, the larger the weight of that respondent in the calculation of unbiased estimates for the target population. The probability of selection of a respondent can be computed as the product of four stagewise sampling probabilities. The probability of selecting respondent i equals the product of 1) the probability of selecting respondent i's PSU, 2) the probability of selecting respondent i's subarea given selection of her PSU, 3) the probability of selecting respondent i's dwelling unit given selection of her subarea, and 4) the probability of selecting respondent i given selection of her dwelling unit.

To obtain the "final NHSDA weights," the "basic sampling weights" were adjusted to take into account dwelling unit-level and individual-level nonresponse and further adjusted to ensure consistency with intercensal population projections obtained from the U.S. Bureau of the Census. The weight adjustments in the 1995 NHSDA were closely similar to the weight adjustments that were applied in previous NHSDAs. The adjustments that were made to the basic sampling weights are as follows:

Adjustment 1. Adjustment for dwelling unit nonresponse. Failure to complete the screening interview for sampled dwellings was the first type of nonresponse encountered in the survey. As in the 1991 through 1994 NHSDAs, sample weights were adjusted for this type of nonresponse using a logistic regression model. This procedure uses logistic regression to model the expected value of a zero-one response indicator given a set of predictor variables available for both respondents and nonrespondents. The algorithm used to fit the logistic regression response propensity model is a generalization of raking or iterative proportional fitting (Bishop, Fienberg, & Holland, 1975, pp. 83-102). In 1995, the potential predictor variables were based on 1990 Census block and enumeration district characteristics, including percent Hispanic, percent black, percent owner-occupied households, median housing value, median rent, region, and metropolitan status. After obtaining the final models, the adjustment factor was calculated as the inverse of the estimated response propensity.

Adjustment 2. Person weight trimming adjustment. In order to minimize the effect of extreme weights on estimated variances, the largest person-level weights were truncated or "trimmed." The distributions of person-level weights were examined within classes defined by strata, race/ethnicity, and age/smoking group to determine if there was a need for truncation of very large weights. When there appeared to be a need for truncation, an upper limit was established for that class. The weights were then truncated and smoothed.

Adjustment 3. Person nonresponse/roster adjustment. This adjustment was designed to adjust for both 1) bias associated with nonresponse to the interview and 2) sampling error associated with subsampling persons within responding dwellings. The adjustment was based on an exponential regression model subjected to a generalized raking procedure. The contribution from the roster adjustment was small relative to the nonresponse adjustment contribution in the combined adjustment factor. By incorporating both adjustments into one factor, greater precision was achieved in the final survey estimates than if just a nonresponse adjustment had been performed.

Adjustment 4. Post-stratification to ensure consistency with Bureau of the Census projections. This adjustment was designed to ensure consistency between the sums of weights within specified demographic subgroups and U.S. Bureau of the Census projections of the sizes of these subgroups. The post-stratification totals were obtained from the National Estimates and Projections Branch of the U.S. Bureau of the Census and were classified by age group, gender, race, and Hispanic origin. The samples from each quarter were post-stratified to one-fourth of the projected population totals. These totals represent the population at the midpoint of each quarter's data collection period. The resulting sample weights, summed across all four quarters, equal the average of the four quarter-specific projections. The final analysis weight can be regarded as the number of population members that each respondent represents.

As in the 1993 and 1994 NHSDAs, the population totals that were used to post-stratify the 1995 NHSDA were based on projections derived from 1990 Census population counts, while the population totals used to post-stratify the 1992 and earlier NHSDAs were based on projections derived from 1980 Census counts. This change in the source of population totals used in post-stratification caused some small changes in the distribution of weights by age, race, ethnicity, and gender. However, the effect of changing to the 1990 Census on estimated rates of drug use was inconsequential (see Table D.2 of Office of Applied Studies, SAMHSA Main Findings 1993).

Contents and Organization of the 1995 NHSDA Public Use File

Data File Description

The file described here has been prepared in SAS Transport Format to facilitate its use on a variety of operating systems and SAS release versions. It is provided on either CD-ROM or on an unlabeled nine-track tape at 6250 BPI. Before conversion to Transport Format, the dataset had these characteristics:

Internal SAS name	NHSDA95
SAS version	6.10
Number of observations	17,747
Number of variables	1,250

The overall organization of the file is shown in the Table of Contents of this document. Edited data from the questionnaire and drug answer sheets make up the first portion of the file. These variables contain missing data; see the section on "Standard Code Conventions" below for a description of the codes given to different types of missing data. The number of observations for which data are missing for any given variable is shown in the entry for that variable.

Imputation-revised demographic and drug use variables and recoded versions of these variables are given in the next four sections of the file. These variables include indicators for lifetime, past year and past month substance use, as well as imputation-revised demographic variables such as age, race/ethnicity, education, employment and income. Missing values for these variables have been imputed using the statistical imputation procedures described below. Imputation indicators are provided for each variable so that users may easily determine whether an observation contains data from the questionnaire or an imputed value. Users who wish to replicate results published in the National Household Survey on Drug Abuse: Main Findings 1995 (DHHS Publication No. (SMA) 97-3127) or other SAMHSA reports should use the 1995 NHSDA imputed data for prevalence estimates rather than raw data from the questionnaire or drug answer sheets.

Many of the remaining variables in the 1995 file are recoded or logically imputed variables created for the prevalence section of the National Household Survey on Drug Abuse: Main Findings 1995. These variables include recodes of questionnaire and imputation revised drug variables, and logically imputed variables and recoded versions of logically imputed variables pertaining to drug use problems, symptoms of dependency and negative drinking experiences.

Variables containing the original responses to recency-of-use questions are presented in a section called "Unedited Recencies." These are included to show the recency data actually collected before the responses were edited based on evidence of use found elsewhere in the questionnaire.

Variable Naming Conventions

Variable names are mnemonics related to the meaning of each variable. Insofar as possible, variables identical to those in the 1985, 1988, 1990, 1991, 1992, 1993, 1994-A and 1994-B NHSDA analytical files have also been named identically. However, the user should refer to the questionnaires and previous codebooks to verify that the data are exactly comparable.

Imputations

Logical Imputations

For selected key variables, response data were changed to reflect more recent use or missing data were replaced with nonmissing values. The two different imputation procedures used are distinguished in this codebook by the code-value descriptive phrases "… LOGICALLY IMPUTED" and ".. imputed" or by the designation "IMPUTATION-REVISED" in the variable label.

Logical imputation was carried out in the earliest stage of editing for the original recency-of-use variables. This procedure involved checking, for each recency-of use variable, other variables in the same answer sheet only that could yield evidence of use of that specific subject drug or class of drugs. Then the most recent indication supplied by the respondent of use of that drug replaced missing data in the subject drug recency-of-use variable or was used to change a less recent response value to a value reflecting the indication elsewhere of more recent use. Unique code values (7, 8, or 9) were assigned to the recency-of-use variable when such logical imputation occurred; these code values are readily identifiable by the phrase "… LOGICALLY ASSIGNED" in the code-value descriptions. For those recency-of-use variables with missing data for which no indication of use of the drug could be found by examination of all relevant variables in the same answer sheet, a code value of 91 (Never used) was assigned if there were one or more indications of such nonuse in the set of relevant variables. The variables for which logical imputation was implemented are CIGREC, ALCREC, SEDREC, TRANREC, STIMREC, ANALREC, MJREC, INHREC, COCREC, CRAKREC, HALLREC, PCPREC, HERREC, SNUFREC, PCPREC, and LSDREC.

At this point in the editing process, a determination was made as to whether each record in the database contained enough information to be considered complete. To be classified as a minimally complete case, and thus to be retained in the database, data on the recency of use of alcohol, marijuana, and cocaine had to have been provided by the respondent or logically imputed from other answers supplied by the respondent.

Following logical imputation, any remaining missing data for recency-of-use variables, for the frequency-of-use-in-past-12-months variables (other than alcohol, marijuana, and cocaine) for age, race, and Hispanic-origin variables, marital status, work status, education, high school graduate and health insurance were imputed by using a technique known as hot-deck imputation (using various sorts and classing variables). The income variables, as well as the alcohol, marijuana, and cocaine frequency-of-use-in-past-12 months variables, were imputed using regression based methods. Variables in this database for which the imputation procedures were implemented may be identified by the designation "IMPUTATION-REVISED" in the variable label and their variable names begin with the letters IR. In addition, for each imputation-revised variable, there is an "IMPUTATION INDICATOR" variable whose values distinguish whether the imputed variable's value originated from interview responses or were imputed.

In general, analysts are advised to use the imputation-revised variables for tabular summaries and other descriptive analyses. For analyses of relationships where multiple data items are involved, use of these imputation-revised variables may not be appropriate. Usually these analyses span data items that were not jointly used in defining the imputation procedure (either as the output variable or as a classing or sorting variable). In this situation, use of nonimputed data items may be best.

Statistical Imputations

For selected variables of interest, statistical imputation was done following logical imputation in order to replace missing responses with statistically imputed responses. In general, analysts are advised to use the statistically imputed data when creating tabular summaries and other descriptive analyses for population subgroups of interest for trend data analysis. When forming population estimates, often statistical imputations will reduce the bias associated with the estimate. For example, data with missing responses that are not statistically imputed will produce estimates of totals that will necessarily be underestimated and consequently biased, since the total population will not be accounted for in the estimates. Also, the bias in per-unit type estimates, such as the estimate of a population mean, can be reduced with statistical imputation, particularly when the imputation procedure accounts for differential nonresponse patterns and differential reporting patterns among subgroups of the population. The statistically imputed data will not totally eliminate the bias associated with estimates produced from these data, but, depending on the type of analyses being done, the imputation should help reduce the bias.

For analyses of relationships involving multiple data items, use of the statistical imputation-revised variables may not be appropriate. Usually these analyses span data items that were not jointly used in defining the imputation procedure. In this situation, use of non-imputed data items may be best. In summary, statistically imputed responses were created for the following variables: most of the drug recency-of-use items, the past-year frequency-of-use items, age, race, gender, the Hispanic origin items, marital status, work status, education, high school graduate indicator, total and private health insurance, and the personal and family income items.

In the 1995 NHSDA, imputations for all imputation-revised variables, except for the personal earnings and family income variables, were constructed using a technique known as "hot deck imputation." The first step in this procedure was to sort the datafile with a progressive sorting series, using data on recency of use of alcohol, marijuana, cocaine, age, gender, Hispanic origin, and race. The second step of the hot deck imputation procedure was to replace the missing item(s) on a particular record with the last encountered nonmissing response from an adjacent record (except alcohol, marijuana, and cocaine recency-of-use) on the sorted database. The hot deck imputation procedure was appropriate for the recency-of-use variables because the levels of item nonresponse of these variables were low.

Missing data for all personal and family income variables were statistically imputed using a regression-based method of imputation. This imputation procedure involves estimating a logistic regression model using item respondent data. The explanatory variables used in these models included recency of use (four levels) of alcohol, marijuana, and cocaine, age, gender, Hispanic origin, and race. After the model parameters were estimated, the resulting model was used to predict a categorical response for each frequency-of-use item nonrespondent. The model-based imputation procedure was appropriate for two reasons: (a) the level of nonresponse to these questions was larger than observed for the recency-of-use items; and (b) the model-based imputation procedure allows a greater number of statistically significant explanatory variables to affect an imputed response than is possible with the hot deck method. As discussed above, the alcohol, marijuana, and cocaine frequency-of-use were initially determined to be at one of four levels using the regression-based model method of imputation, then expanded to more levels using the hot deck method.

Standard Code Conventions

Generally, the following codes have the same (or consistent) meanings across all variables (exceptions are noted in the documentation for individual variables).

91 or 991 or 9991, etc. = Never used the substance

92 or 992 or 9992, etc. = Response illegible

93 or 993 or 9993, etc. = Did not use drug under conditions in the question (e.g., during time period)

94 or 994 or 9994, etc. = Don't know

95 or 995 or 9995, etc. = Bad data (usually, inconsistent with other data)

96 or 996 or 9996, etc. = Multiple response

97 or 997 or 9997, etc. = Refusal

98 or 998 or 9998, etc. = Blank (not answered)

99 or 999 or 9999, etc. = Legitimate skip

Most logically edited changes resulted in the assignment of the following codes whose meanings are equivalent to the standard codes above.

81 or 981 or 9981, etc. = Never used the substance LOGICALLY ASSIGNED

83 or 983 or 9983, etc. = Did not use drug under conditions in the question (e.g., during time period) LOGICALLY ASSIGNED

85 or 985 or 9985, etc. = Bad data (usually, inconsistent with other data) LOGICALLY ASSIGNED

89 or 989 or 9989, etc. = Legitimate skip LOGICALLY ASSIGNED

Variables from the SPECIAL DRUGS, DRUGS, and TREATMENT answer sheets were not edited to be made consistent with any drug recency-of-use variables. However, editing was conducted to ensure consistency within each of these answer sheets' own set of variables. It should be noted that, as a result of not editing across answer sheets drug-use variables from the SPECIAL DRUGS, DRUGS, and TREATMENT answer sheets may be inconsistent with the edited recency-of-use variables. In this codebook, variables from these 3 answer sheets that might be inconsistent with a drug's recency-of-use variable are denoted with an asterisk (*) at the beginning of the variable label.

Variance Estimation and Design Effects

Statistical Significance of Differences

This section describes methods used to compare prevalence estimates. Customarily, the observed difference between estimates is evaluated in terms of its statistical significance. "Statistical significance" refers to the probability that a difference as large as that observed would occur due to random error in the estimates if there were no difference in the prevalence rates for the population groups being compared. In the 1995 Main Findings report, comparisons were made between estimates in the 1994-B NHSDA subsample and the 1995 survey and between estimates within the 1995 survey. The significance of observed differences is reported at the 0.05, 0.01, and 0.001 levels. However, a reseacher may wish to compare prevalence estimates from two groups for which the significance of the difference is not reported.

To compare the prevalence of drug use for 1994-B versus 1995, one can test the hypothesis of no difference in prevalence rates using the standard difference in proportions test, expressed as

$$Z = \frac{|p1 - p2|}{\sqrt{var(p1) + var(p2) - 2cov(p1,p2)}}$$

where p1 = 1994-B estimated proportion var(p1) = 1994-B variance estimate for p1 p2 = 1995 estimated proportion var(p2) = 1995 variance estimate of p2

cov(p1,p2) = covariance between p1 and p2

Under the null hypothesis of no difference in prevalence rates, Z is asymptotically distributed as a normal random variable; calculated values of Z can, therefore, be referred to the unit normal distribution to determine the corresponding probability level (i.e., p value). Because the 1994-B and 1995 surveys were independent samples, the covariance term in the formula for Z equals zero in comparisons of the 1994-B and 1995 surveys.

For comparing prevalence estimates within the same survey, the same Z statistic quoted above can be used. However, the covariance term is no longer zero when comparing estimates within the same survey. The tests will be slightly conservative because of the small positive covariance expected between the two nonindependent prevalence estimates. The tests made in the 1995 Main Findings report accounted for the covariance by subtracting an estimate of 2cov(p1,p2) from the two variance quantities under the square root symbol in the denominator of Z.

Sample Design Effects and Generalized Standard Errors

This section describes methods for approximating sampling variability by computing generalized standard errors. (The standard error estimate is the square root of the variance estimate.) Correct variance estimates must take into account the complex features of the NHSDA sample design, such as the unequal selection probabilities of sample respondents, stratification, and clustering.

The best variance estimation approach is to use commercially available variance estimation software packages such as SUDAAN (Shah, et al., 1994). Most packages compute variance estimates for means, percentages, and other statistics based on first-order Taylor Series approximation of the deviations of estimates from their expected values. Standard errors have been computed using SUDAAN for all parameter estimates appearing in the 1995 Main Findings report and are available from the Office of Applied Studies (OAS) upon request. Whenever possible, these estimates should be used to compute confidence intervals and perform statistical comparisons. However, it is the goal here to provide future users of the 1995 NHSDA data base with approximate standard error estimates for situations in which NHSDA standard error estimates are not available.

Two approaches for approximating standard error estimates are presented in this section. The first uses median domain design effects. The second is based on a prediction equation obtained from modeling design effects. These alternatives to the published standard error estimates are described below.

Median Design Effects

The design effect is the ratio of the design-based variance estimate divided by the variance estimate that would have been obtained from a simple random sample of the same size. Therefore, the design effect summarizes the effects of stratification, clustering, and unequal weighting on the variance of a complex sample design. Because clustering and unequal weighting are expected to increase the variance, the design effect should virtually always be greater than one.

However, as discussed earlier, design effects were frequently less than one for prevalence rates near zero. Because these values were considered spurious, another design effect estimate based only on stratification and unequal weighting effects was substituted if it was greater than the total design effect. Moreover, if both design effect estimates were less than one, a value of one was substituted.

For the 1995 NHSDA, the median design effects were based on estimates from:

- 14 illicit drug use categories: any illicit drug use; marijuana/hashish; cocaine; crack; inhalants; hallucinogens; PCP; heroin; nonmedical use of any psychotherapeutic; nonmedical use of stimulants; nonmedical use of sedatives; nonmedical use of tranquilizers; nonmedical use of analgesics; needle use;
- 3 licit drug use categories: cigarettes; alcohol; and smokeless tobacco; and
- 3 recency-of-use categories: ever used; used in past year; used in past month.

For each specified domain within the 1995 NHSDA, a median design effect was calculated from the above estimates as opposed to calculating an average design effect. Because extreme values of some design effects would have distorted the associated averages, medians were chosen to provide a better measure of the central value. The domains were defined by cross-classifications of age by gender, race/ethnicity, population density, geographic region of residence, adult education, and current employment. Design effects associated with percentage estimates exhibiting low precision were not used. Because the design effects from the licit drug use estimates tended to be larger than the design effects from the illicit drug use estimates, the median design effects were computed separately for these two classifications. Tables 2 presents the median design effects for the illicit drugs, and Table 3 presents the median design effects for the licit drugs. These tables can be used to calculate an approximate variance estimate for a particular domain of 1995 NHSDA as follows:

$$var(p_d)_{appx} = DEFF_{d,MED} * [p_d(1-p_d)/n_d] \qquad \text{(C-1)}$$

where

p_d = estimated proportion for domain d

n_d = sample size for domain d

$DEFF_{d,MED}$ = median design effect for domain d .

The approximate standard error estimate for p_d, $SE(p_d)_{appx}$, is simply the square root of $var(p_d)_{appx}$.

Model-Based Prediction

When a median design effect for a domain under investigation is not listed in Tables 2 or 3, an alternative standard error approximation is recommended. This approximation uses a prediction equation obtained from modeling estimated design effects. The definition of the design effect is the basis for the regression model:

$$DEFF(p) = var(p) / [p(1-p)/n]$$

var(p) = design-based variance estimate of p

Taking the log (base 10) of both sides of the above equation leads to the following log-linear model:

$$\log[DEFF(p)] = \beta_0 + \beta_1 \log(p) + \beta_2 \log(1-p) + \beta_3 \log(n)$$

where

$\beta_0, \beta_1, \beta_2, \beta_3$ = regression coefficients for the intercept, log(p), log(1-p), and log(n), respectively.

Separate models were fit for the licit and illicit drug use estimates in the 1995 NHSDA. The design effects used to calculate the medians in Tables 2 and 3 were used to fit the licit and illicit drug use models for the 1995 NHSDA.

By substituting the fitted model into the definition of the design effect, a prediction equation for the approximate standard error is obtained:

$$SE_i\ (p)_{appx} = \frac{10^{(b_{0i}/2)} * p^{(1+b_{1i})/2} * (1-p)^{(1+b_{2i})/2}}{n^{(1-b_{3i})/2}}$$

where

$b_{0i}, b_{1i}, b_{2i}, b_{3i}$ = regression coefficients estimates for the intercept, log(p), log(1-p), and log(n), respectively.

The index-i indicates whether the standard error approximation is for a licit drug or illicit drug prevalence estimate.

After solving for the regression coefficients, the above approximation reduces to the following two prediction equations:

$$SE(p_{illegal})_{appx} = \frac{1.0195 * p^{(0.5674)} * (1-p)^{(0.6148)}}{n^{(0.4334)}}. \quad \text{(C-2)}$$

$$SE(p_{legal})_{appx} = \frac{0.7796 * p^{(0.5175)} * (1-p)^{(0.4437)}}{n^{(0.3611)}}. \quad \text{(C-3)}$$

Tables 4 and 5 present generalized standard errors for various percentages (from 1% to 99%) and sample sizes (from 100 to 17,747) for the 1995 NHSDA, predicted from Equations (C-2) and (C-3).

In summary, the user may obtain 1995 NHSDA standard error estimates from the following recommended order of sources:

1. Commercially available variance estimation software packages such as SUDAAN; otherwise,

2. Published standard errors from published reports using data from the 1995 NHSDA (obtainable upon request from the OAS at SAMHSA); otherwise,

3. Median domain design effects appearing in Tables 2 and 3 and application of Equation (C-1); otherwise,

4. Model-based prediction, using Equations (C-2) and (C-3) or Tables 4 and 5 for national or regional estimates.

Once the variance estimates have been obtained, the user may apply standard methods to compute confidence intervals or make statistical comparisons.

Use of Sample Weights and Sample Design Variables

The NHSDA sample is not self-weighting, so analysts are advised to use the sample weight when attempting to use the NHSDA data to draw inferences about the target population or any subdomain of the target population. All estimates published in SAMHSA reports (such as 1995 Main Findings) are weighted. The appropriate and final sample weight is called ANALWT on this data file. This sample weight represents the total number of target population persons each record on the file represents. Note that the sum of ANALWT, over all records on the data file, represents an estimate of the total number of people in the target population. Additional information on the sample weighting procedures and the sample weight components may be found in the Sample Design Report for the 1995 NHSDA, available from OAS.

The public use file contains two sample design variables in addition to ANALWT. These variables are VESTR (sample stratum) and VEREP (replicate within stratum) and must be used to estimate variances and standard errors when using commercially available variance estimation software packages such as SUDAAN or any other.

Adolescent Mental Health Variables

The 1995 NHSDA public use file includes a number of adolescent mental health recodes that were created using a battery of 100 items (see Non-Core Youth Checklist, page 168) from the Youth Self-Report (YSR), a checklist developed by Achenbach (1991) which has been used extensively in studies of adolescents age 11 to 18. YSR items have been used by Achenbach and colleagues to define a variety of categories of problems. Eight of these problem categories are included in the NHSDA, each constructed by summing specific subsets of items from the YSR (these eight problem categories were derived from principal components/varimax analyses of the YSR items (Achenbach, 1991)). In addition, the eight problem categories were partially combined into two major subscales, an "internalizing/emotional problem" subscale and an "externalizing/behavioral problem" subscale. Lastly, responses to all 100 checklist items were summed to compute a "total psychosocial problem" score. The public use file contains raw scores for the syndromes and composite subscales, as well as T scores for the eight problem categories. T scores are based on percentiles for Achenbach's normative sample, and provide a convenient way of quickly judging whether a youth reports relatively many or few problems as compared to their nonreferred peers (Achenbach, 1991).

Confidentiality of Data

To protect the confidentiality of NHSDA respondents, all variables that could be used to identify individual respondents have been deleted from the public use file. To further protect confidentiality, some continuous variables have been categorized. In general, the cutpoints of each categorized variables are the quintiles of the weighted distribution. These data modifications should not greatly affect most analytical uses of the 1995 NHSDA public use file.

		The imputation-revised versions of age, race, ethnicity, gender, marital status, education and current work status were based on edited versions of the corresponding demographic questions on the core NHSDA answer sheet. When possible, screener data was used during the editing, however relevant data on any supplemental NHSDA answer sheet was not used.

		The 1995 variables - STUDENT, ESTUDENT, SCHDAYS, ESCHDAYS, SKIPPED and ESKIPPED have been edited exactly as in NHSDA 1994W.
		The variables STUDENT, SCHDAYS, and SKIPPED have been edited comparable to 1993 and earlier NHSDAs. The variables ESTUDENT, ESCHDAYS, and ESKIPPED have been edited using the new subparts "SCHOOL NOT IN SESSION" (in the latter two variables listed) and the INTDATE (interviewer date) variable.

		The next questions are about your health care, health insurance coverage, and the kinds and amounts of income that you receive. The answers to these questions will add greatly to our knowledge about the health problems of the American people, the types of health care they receive, and whether they can afford the care that they need. This information will help in planning health care services and finding ways to lower costs of care.

		The next questions are about your health insurance coverage and the kinds and amounts of income that you receive. The answers to these questions will add greatly to our knowledge about the health problems of the American people, the types of health care they receive, and whether they can afford the care that they need. This information will help in planning health care services and finding ways to lower costs of care. Most of these next questions refer to the month of (LAST FULL CALENDAR MONTH) rather than to the past 30 days that were referred to in some earlier questions.

		In the following eight variables (WITHDRWT, SOMCOMT, ANXDEPT, SOCPROBT, THPROBT, ATTPROBT, DELBEHT, AGGBEHT) the raw scores have been converted to T scores for each syndrome. Normalized T scores are based on percentiles of normative samples (computed separately for each sex) and provide a convenient way of judging whether a youth reports relatively many or few problems as compared to other youth.

MAIN FINDINGS 1995 - VARIABLE CREATION

The following variables were created for the National Household Survey on Drug Abuse: Main Findings 1995 report. These variables consist of recodes of previous codebook variables.

There are two sections of recodes of previous codebook variables: 1) recodes of drug use and demographic variables for Main Findings 1995 report chapters 1-11, and 2) recodes of mental health, drug use, and demographic variables for Main Findings 1995 report chapter 12. For most of the recodes the source variables are used to define a new variable. The source variables and recode instructions are given either in parentheses after the variable definition, or in a comment directly above the variable definition.
